

Teacher of the Month
January 2005

Andrew Layne – Pulaski County High School

The selection committee respectfully requests that Andrew Layne, social studies teacher at Pulaski County High School, be named as Teacher of the Month for January 2005. Drew is a graduate of Northern Virginia Community College and Radford University. He has taught and coached in Pulaski County Public Schools for seven years.

Mr. Layne has distinguished himself as a professional with a passion for teaching. He not only teaches his assigned classes, but also extends his teaching day through coaching, tutoring and homebound instruction. His colleagues say that Drew goes the extra mile to motivate students and to get them involved in their learning. He has successfully secured funding and contributions to have a very successful incentive program for an SOL review program.

Drew is always seeking new ways to ensure that all students are learning. He strives to create the conditions for having fun while teaching and learning. He has endless energy and enthusiasm. Mr. Layne knows his subject matter, understands kids, and takes pride in his profession.

Andrew Layne's contributions to Pulaski County High School students, staff and parents reflect great credit on himself and the Pulaski County Public Schools.
