

Teacher of the Month
November 2007

Pamela Hanks – Pulaski County High School

The selection committee respectfully requests that Mrs. Pamela Hanks of Pulaski County High School (PCHS) be named as Teacher of the Month for November 2007. Pam is a graduate Radford University and taught in Franklin, Bedford, and Rockbridge Counties before coming to PCHS. She has taught mathematics and computer science and is currently the Instructional Technology Resource Teacher.

Mrs. Hanks has distinguished herself as a professional with a special ability to make learning fun for both students and teachers. Her enthusiasm is contagious and she has outstanding rapport with her colleagues and students.

Pam was nominated by several of her colleagues. They each mention that she is always available to teachers to answer their questions, to model effective technology practices, and to help develop lessons that incorporate instructional technologies. The nominators say that Pam has led great change in the academic programs at PCHS and instruction has risen to a new level because of her helpful attitude and outstanding knowledge.

Mrs. Pamela Hanks' contributions to Pulaski County High School students, staff and parents reflect great credit on herself, our profession, and the Pulaski County Public Schools.
