

Golden Apple Award

Jennifer Lyons
Outstanding New Teacher
presented by: Virginia Tech Agricultural Education

Each year the Virginia Tech Agricultural Education Society recognizes a VA Tech alumnus with the Outstanding New Teacher Award. This year, the Society selected Jennifer Lyons, Pulaski County High School's agriculture teacher, to receive this prestigious award. Jennifer is a graduate of both VA Tech and Pulaski County High School. Jennie was honored at the Society's banquet on March 18, 2006. She received a check and a plaque from the Virginia Council of Farmer Cooperatives. Her name is now engraved on a permanent plaque placed in the Future Farmers of America Historical Room. Jennie will also be recognized during the Virginia Agriculture Education banquet at the state conference this summer. Ms. Lyons is one of our best and brightest teachers. She brings great honor to herself, her profession and Pulaski County Public Schools.
